THE ENGLISH RULE OF EGYPT

J. Abellina Says Roosevelt Made a Grave Mistake in His Speeches in Egypt England's Promises and the Way That Nation Dodges keeping Them.

J. Abellina of Cairo, who says he is Egypt's only globe trotter and who is on his way to Chattanooga, Tenn., to see a son who is married to an American and in business there, was at the Breslin yesterday and said that the Egyptian people had been sorely disappointed at the outcome of Col. Roosevelt's visit to

Mr. Abellina, who is an Egyptian, is a Roman Catholic by religion and learned English at the mission school at Cairo. At the time of the war of 1882 he was interpreter to the army of occupation and witnessed the bombardment of Cairo. He was also with Lord Wolseley at the battle of Tel el Kebir, Mr. Abellina says that he has been in every country in the world.

"In Egypt," said Mr. Abellina yesterday. "we looked upon Col. Roosevelt as the sort of man who could not make mistakes. Judging from his new famous address in Cairo we believe that he had been so ! well treated by the English officers and designated Attorney-General Edward R. him in the way of encouragement. European schools and universities. But in support of the Nationalist view, which seems to appeal to Mr. Roosevelt more when he is at home than abroad, the fact remains that when England took over the task of reforming the country and strengthening the Khediyal authority in isseengthening the Khedval authority in 1882 the promise was given that as soon as this was accomplished she would get out of the country. Now it is feared, and with apparent reason, that England has no such intention. Egypt has become too valuable. The Nationalists are in-As for Col. The great need in Egypt is more water. The great dam at Associan benefits only Upper Egypt. There should be a great merit of the Supreme Court to be held in Queens country of Court in Egypt. There should be a great market in Egypt for American machinery especially pumps for irrigating, and for agricultural implements. The territory has not been tapped by American matria facturers. Then there is great need of an american matria facturers, and the trade leatwenthis country and Egypt is increasing. Egypt is the gateway to the East by the old route, and it is going to play almost important part in the world's affairs some day. Meantime it is developing fast as an agricultural country, and American manufacturers ought to reap some of the benefits that come out of an increasing demand for modern machinery. on a honeymoon trip. The Judge, who is in his seventy-ninth year, was married on September 10 at Indianapolis to Miss Linda H. Schulz, for several years director of practice for public school teachers in that city.

Judge Tarkington and his bride have been spending a week with the former's son at Kennebunkport, Me., and report the latter as busily reviving his play "Mrs. Jim" for Miss May Irwin. The bridegroom recalled yesterday a speech he had heard Abraham Lincoln deliver on his way through Indianapolis to be inaugurated in 1861.

"Lincoln in his speech was accustomed"

I see the census makes a metropolis of Indianapolis. When I went there it was a straggling town of some 10,000 inhabitants. I went there fresh from college to be secretary to Gov. J. A Wright in the early '50s. I lived at the Governor's house and he used to make it his business to see that the State House was locked up every night. He used to take the big key and put it in the lock and turn it himself every day at the close of business, or if he was otherwise occupied he used to send me across the street with it to lock up. I imagine there are not many Governors nowadays who charge themselves with responsibility for such details."
